REPORT OF HEALTH OFFICER

To the Honorable Board of Selectmen:

I, as your health officer, submit the following report:

During the past year there were nineteen cases of scarlet fever. The majority of these cases occurred during the first few months of this year, being in fact, the end of the epidemic of this disease which had its inception in the Fall months of the previous year.

There were five cases of diphtheria. Every means was used, as directed by the State Board of Health, to confine the disease to the infected area. Formerly in the infected houses, the whole family was quarantined, and in many cases where the wage-earner was restricted to his home it entailed a considerable expense to the town to provide food and fuel. Now the patient is confined to one quarantined room with a nurse or relative in charge. Complete instruction is given the family to safeguard themselves and also the public from infection.

There were so many cases of measles and mumps that it really amounted to an epidemic of these diseases. In the large majority of these cases no doctor was called or official informed, the children being treated by their parents. In all cases brought to our attention, the infected person was directed to remain at home until all possibility of contagion was over.

There were forty-eight complaints reported for attention. Most of these were for people throwing refuse and rubbish on the premises of others. Nine dead animals were reported as nuisances on public streets and waterways and were disposed of.

The collector of refuse and garbage did his work very well during the warm weather and this no doubt helped to make for better health conditions generally. The cost of these collections was covered by an appropriation of eight hundred dollars. All this rubbish was brought to the town dump where a caretaker is employed to either burn up or so dispose of the refuse that vehicles of all kinds can drive up to the dumping banks in safety. The state forestry agent caused additional expense here by directing extra help be hired during the Fall drought, as, they claimed, there was danger of fire spreading to the surrounding forests at that time.

The activities of the county tubercular association during the year were as follows:

No. clinics	4
No. persons examined at clinics	114
No. new patients examined	81
No. of new tuberculosis cases found	8
No. of new suspicious tuberculosis cases found	11
No. of patients apparently cured	2
No. of patients sent to sanatoria	2
No. of positive cases now under supervision	33
No. of suspicious cases now under supervision	14

The clinics were conducted by Dr. Kerr, the state tuberculosis physician. These examinations show a marked decrease in tubercular persons, from year to year, and a most encouraging feature is the treating of the cases early and so arresting the disease, that in many cases the affected person is able to regain his normal health.

An outstanding feature of the health work in Newport was the toxin-anti-toxin clinic held in the month of December. The work was started early in September and for a time it seemed that the several agencies endeavoring to further the movement did not get the cooperation to be expected from those it was intended to help. Agencies seemed to be at work to discourage parents from listing the children to be treated. Through the persistent work of the county and local health nurses with the assistance of the Child Welfare Association, an aggressive campaign was kept up and hundreds of children were enrolled for the clinic. It is to be regretted that many names of pre-school age children were withdrawn just before the clinic started. The local doctors gave generously of their time at the several sessions of the clinic. To the Child Welfare Association of Newport must go a great deal of the credit for the success of this toxin-anti-toxin clinic. They canvassed the town early and late, not once but several times, in their endeavors to bring to the people the advantages to be gained by the children attending this clinic. We all appreciate the benefits to be gained by having an organization of this kind in our town.

The drinking water was examined four times during the year, and each time it was found to be of good quality and free from contamination.

There were five regular examinations made of the milk during the year, and in only three cases was it necessary to demand that more care be taken in the handling of the product. It was brought to the attention of a few of the storekeepers that milk must not be exposed for sale unless in refrigerated glass cases. There were numerous samples of milk sent in for examination by individuals who wanted the milk tested either for purity, i. e. bacteria count, or for quality or butter-fat content.

Sustained effort should always be maintained to secure pure milk as one-sixteenth of the deaths from tuberculosis is bovine tuberculosis. One fifth of all bone and joint tuberculosis is due to bacilli derived from cows, and one third of all the diseases of children under five years of age is due to bacilli from this source.

Twelve cases of venereal disease were reported. These cases were checked up at regular intervals and the affected ones treated as required by law, so that they could continue their regular occupations and not be a menace to those with whom they came in contact. In three of these venereal cases that required treatment, no remuneration was at hand to pay for treatments, and to avoid their becoming incurables and an ultimate continued expense to the town, they were given immediate treatment and so far immunized as to be safe to pursue their regular vocations.

During the past ten years, more than ever before, various health agencies have worked in cooperation with the public with the result that great strides have been made in health education.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN R. KELLY,
Health Officer.

NEW CONSTRUCTION

In March, 1930, the Water Commissioners engaged the services of Weston and Sampson, Consulting Engineers of Boston, Mass., to measure the leakage of the reservoir and determine the condition of the pipe lines supplying the reservoir and distributing system from Gilman Pond, and make a report with recommendations as to the method and cost of stopping the leakage at the reservoir, and reconditioning the supply lines. On March 12th Mr. Sampson came to Newport and made a flow test of the six inch and eight inch mains, and measured the leakage of the reservoir.

The Report is as follows:

March 14th, 1930.

Water Department,
Newport, N. H.
Gentlemen:

In accordance with your telephoned request of March 7th, Mr. Sampson arrived in Newport on the following day to discuss certain problems in connection with your water supply system. There are three problems of immediate importance all of which are related to the shortage of water that occurred for a period of several weeks during the past summer. We were authorized to determine the condition of the 6" and 8" supply mains leading from Gilman Pond to the reservoir. Our principal assistant engineer, Mr. Thomas F. Dorsey, was in Newport on Monday and Tuesday of this week, and Mr. Sampson on Tuesday, to conduct the tests. As a result we submit the following report:

1. Leakage From Reservoir.

The distributing reservoir, having a storage capacity of slightly over 700,000 gallons, has leaked since its construction. The seepage flowing out of the ground below the earth embankment was measured by Mr. Shepard last year by collecting the various streams in a barrel. At that time the total ground water flow was found to be at the rate of 104,000 gals. in 24 hours. On Tuesday morning the inlet and outlet pipes connecting with the reservoir were closed and the actual drop of the water surface was measured in the gate house. The total drop amounted to $\frac{3}{4}$ " in $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours, or at the rate of 90,000 gals. per 24 hours. The difference between these two determinations of leakage may well be the natural flow of ground water, as a spring is said to have existed before the reservoir was constructed. The reservoir leakage is probably from 30 to 35% of the present capacity of the 8" and 6" supply lines from Gilman Pond and, therefore, creates a serious condition.

The reservoir should be repaired, and before the increased use of water during the summer months. The reservoir was well built structurally and is in good condition except that the stone paving at and near the flow line has been somewhat displaced by frost action. A considerable part of the leakage probably follows along the surface of ledge encountered in the excavation and finally finds its way out through the ground below the embankment. To repair the leaks in a permanent manner, we recommend a concrete lining reinforced with steel rods. In any case, the entire bottom of the reservoir should be lined and the slopes at least in part. The extent of the lining on the slopes can be determined when the water is drawn off for the repairs. Very likely it will be found expedient to end the paving about 4 feet below the flow line of the reservoir, and to thoroughly join the stone paving above this level with cement mortar. It may be necessary to seal the junction of the ledge and the earth up to the water surface. The paving may possibly be omitted over a considerable area of the ledge itself.

The cost of waterproofing the reservoir, including the replacing of the paving near the flow line, the concrete lining, engineering and incidentals is estimated at from $6,000 to $7,500. The entire work, including cleaning the reservoir, should be accomplished in 10 working days. The period between emptying the reservoir and the final filling would be about two weeks.

In order to obtain definite and comparable prices for the repairs, it would be advisable to prepare a tentative plan and specifications as a basis for proposals and a guide during construction. The proposals would include unit prices for the various items of work so that the actual extent of the concrete paving could be altered as found advisable during the progress of the work. After the proposals were received, it is possible that you would decide to allot the work to some contractor on a basis of actual cost plus a fixed fee, or on some other basis.

2. Supply Mains.

The original supply main leading from Gilman Pond—the source of supply—to the distributing reservoir was laid thirty-five years ago and consists of 1,360 ft. of 8" and 23,770 ft. of 6" cast iron pipe. In 1909 another supply main consisting of 50 ft. of 12" and 21,330 ft. of 8" cast iron pipe was installed parallel to the 6" main from Gilman Pond to a point 3,750 ft. distant from the reservoir where it reduces to a 6" cast iron pipe running directly to the town, a distance of 8,400 ft. The present hydraulic conditions of the 6" and 8" mains were determined on Tuesday by a pitometer installed at Station 55 plus 45 near a 6" blow-off into a brook leading to the river. The results of these tests are as follows:

6" Main. Readings were taken with the by-pass open between the 8" and 6" mains at Station 37 plus 50 and with the blow-off at Station 54 plus 20 partially open in order to relieve the excessive pressure on the pitometer and to induce an increased velocity through the main.

Length of equivalent 6" C. I. P. from Gilman Pond to the pitometer, 18,620 ft.

Average velocity of flow, 1.34 ft. per second.

Average rate of discharge, 170,000 gals. per 24 hours.

Total loss of head in friction, 234.5 ft.

Loss of head per 1000 ft., 12.60, corresponding to C equals 40 in Williams & Hazens hydraulic tables.

Capacity of 6" main under ordinary condition, (C equals 100) 425,000 gals. per 24 hours.

Present capacity compared with ordinary condition, 40%.

Present capacity of 6" main discharging into reservoir, 125,000 gals. per 24 hours.

Capacity of 6" main under ordinary condition discharging into reservoir, 310,000 gals. per 24 hours.

8" Main. Readings were taken with the blow-off at Station 54 plus 20 partially open to relieve the excessive pressure and to increase the velocity through the main.

Length of equivalent 8" C. I. P. from Gilman Pond to the pitometer, 19,540 ft.

Average velocity of flow, 1.29 ft. per second.

Average rate of discharge, 308,000 gals. per 24 hours.

Total loss of head in friction, 211 ft.

Loss of head per 1000 ft., 10.80, corresponding to (C equals 40) in Williams & Hazen's hydraulic tables.

Capacity of 8" main under ordinary condition, (C equals 100) 835,000 gals. per 24 hours.

Present capacity compared with ordinary condition, 40%—

Present capacity of 8" main discharging through the present 8400 ft. of 6" C. I. P. directly to the town against the reservoir pressure, assuming the 6" to be 40% of ordinary condition, 175,000 gals. per 24 hours.

The present flow of the 6" and 8" mains discharging into the reservoir and to the town amounts to 300,000 gals. per 24 hours.

If the total lengths of both mains were cleaned as proposed by The National Water Main Cleaning Co., you could expect a total flow of 750,000 gals. per 24 hours. With new pipe the total flow would probably amount to 870,000 gals. per 24 hours. By cleaning the 6" main from the reservoir to Station 37 plus 50, the flow would be increased from 125,000 to 155,000 gals. per 24 hours. By cleaning the 6" main from Station 37 plus 50 to the town, a distance of 8400 ft., the flow through the 8" main would be increased from 175,000 to 250,000 gals. per 24 hours, making a total increase of from 300,000 to 405,000 gals.

3. Supply of water during repairs to the reservoir.

During the repairs to the reservoir the town will necessarily be supplied with water for domestic uses and fire protection directly from Gilman Pond through the 6" and 8" mains. The inlet and outlet valves at the reservoir would be closed and the 6" by-pass at Station 9 plus 56.4 opened.

With the supply coming directly from the Pond, the use of water at certain hours of the day and especially during any fire might exceed the capacity of the mains. At such times the pressure in the town would automatically increase the rate of flow. Assuming a pressure of 20 lbs. at a hydrant in front of the Water Company's office, the 6" main would deliver 230,000 gals. and the 8" main 280,000 gals. making a total of 510,000 gals. per 24 hours, as against 300,000 gals. without any drop in pressure. At other times during the day, and especially at night, the rate of supply would exceed the demand and the pressure would increase to the danger point.

To guard against this contingency it would only be necessary to install a 3" water relief valve at a convenient point on some main near the center of the town where it would blow off into the river or some drain. This valve would be set to discharge at a pressure only slightly above the normal pressure from the reservoir. A 3" valve would discharge the entire capacity of both mains without increasing the pressure beyond 10 or 15 lbs.

It is obvious that while the reservoir is out of use the fire protection from hydrants will be inadequate for a fire of any proportions. One good fire stream would be available under direct pressure, and two fair fire streams for a pumping engine. It is fortunate that the most hazardous section can be protected by a pumping engine taking water direct from the river. Some means of easy access to the river for the suction of the engine should be provided. Special precautions should also be taken to prevent fires during the period of repairing the reservoir.

Recommendations.

As a result of our studies we recommend:

1. That the reservoir be repaired at an estimated cost of from $6,000 to $7,500.
2. That a portion of the 6" main be cleaned, if a favorable contract can be obtained from The National Water Main Cleaning Co.

We suggest that the line from the reservoir to Station 37 plus 50 and from Station 37 plus 50 to the town are of the first importance.

We would naturally suggest that this cleaning be done before the repairs to the reservoir in order to provide an additional supply of 105,000 gals. per 24 hours, but because the appropriation is limited to $7,500 and because of the uncertainty of the cost of repairing the reservoir, it would seem advisable to first complete the reservoir repairs and then use the balance for cleaning the mains.

We would be pleased to prepare a plan and specifications for the repairs to the reservoir, to supervise this work, to prepare a contract with The National Water Main Cleaning Co., or to assist you in any way.

Yours very truly,
Weston & Sampson.

Early in May Weston & Sampson were authorized to prepare plans and specifications for repairs to the reservoir, and to take charge of the engineering. Proposals were submitted to various contractors and the contract was awarded to Mr. A. P. Rounds of Stoneham, Mass. The repairs were started the middle of June and were completed the first of July. The repairs which consisted of a reinforced concrete lining have been very satisfactory to date and have effected in a large amount of water being saved.

The cost of repairs to the reservoir is as follows:

Weston & Sampson, engineering and supervision	$ 921.39
A. P. Rounds, contractor	5,353.69
Water Dept., labor, materials and incidentals	225.97
Balance due 1931	255.16

Total cost	$ 6,756.21
------------	-------------

The building of the new bridge on Main Street necessitated the changing over of the 10" main and moving of two hydrants at a cost of $ 924.52

Service pipes have been laid to seven additional houses during the year.

SUPERINTENDENT, FRANK A. MORRIS

REPORT OF

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the Members of the School Board,
Newport, N. H.,

Gentlemen:

In discussing the making of this report with many people, I have frequently been advised "Tell us how you found things." The State Code of Professional Ethics contains this statement: "It is unprofessional . . . to criticize co-laborers and predecessors." I interpret the word "criticize" to mean commenting either favorably or unfavorably, and for this reason I shall endeavor to discuss matters as they are, without in any way giving credit or discredit to previous administrations.

The first and most important necessity to a successful school system is an efficient business management. Your office did not include a proper accounting system. Such a system has been installed. I have asked all tradespeople and workers to co-operate, by refusing to supply materials or labor without a written order, so that we may have a record of debts contracted. The office has been somewhat handicapped this fall by a large number of outstanding bills, of which there was no record. To date this condition has not been entirely corrected, but will be reported in detail next year, in connection with the report on the 1930-31 budget.

May I call your attention here to the fact that the figures reported herewith are not of the current year, but are for the school year ending last June, while the proposed budget refers to the school year beginning next September. Consequently, it is impossible for the average citizen to know what is going on at present. This condition is due to the necessity for having our fiscal year coincide with that of the State, while our appropriation is made in March. To care for this, as far as your Board is concerned, I am now issuing monthly financial reports. It should be a matter of public knowledge that our books are public records, and as such are open to inspection at any time by interested citizens. We are in a position to report, not only what has been spent, but also what bills are outstanding.

After becoming able to know where the money is going, it is next important to see that it is spent wisely. I have requested our teaching force not to stint themselves nor the pupils, but at the same time to be careful not to allow wastage. They are co-operating heartily.

The primary purpose for running schools is to teach boys and girls. This fact sounds very obvious when stated, but nevertheless we sometimes lose sight of it. Any expenditure which does not bear directly on this aim, is money wasted.

A good teacher, with very meager supplies, can still do a very good job of teaching; but a poor teacher, with superb buildings and all available materials, will still teach a poor school. I find Newport to be fortunate, in that its teaching force is above average in native intelligence and desire to produce results. I find it to be below average in actual teaching skill.

The above statement must be studied carefully. You have hired a superior lot of promising teachers, but just as soon as they get enough practice to become really valuable, you have allowed them to leave you. Your children are really laboratory material, upon which young teachers are experimenting in learning their trade. This opportunity is splendid for the teachers, but not so good for the children. May I quote from this year's report of the State Board of Education: "It is probable that we are paying beginners, college and normal graduates, fully as much as they are worth. Trained and successful teachers of five or more years of experience should be retained in our schools at adequate salaries."

I believe we should eliminate any teachers who do not show promise of being superior, whenever such appear, replacing them with potentially superior teachers at the minimum salary. By keeping in our system a sensible proportion of such low salaried teachers, we should have available enough money to compete with other schools to keep our really fine teachers without an undue increase in our budget. At present, out of a teaching force of 30, we have but six teachers with five or more years of experience.

The question arises—how are we to know whether a teacher is good? In industry we judge workers by the amount of production. In schools, too often, we judge workers (teachers) by wholly outside items, such as social connections, manner of dress, personal liking, and similar standards.

In Newport we are attempting to measure actual production by means of a testing program. This will not be scientifically accurate, but it will help. As one old school-man once said, "The teacher who teaches the best arithmetic or reading lesson, is pretty apt to have the best Christian and moral influence, too."

After getting the best teacher material available, it is the superintendent's duty to improve them in service. Our testing program has already shown us a deficiency in reading skill, and we are working on that. A number of small group and general teachers' meetings have been held, and more are planned. The teachers, from the first grade through the high school, are studying the available literature on the subject, and this attention should gradually cause improvement in the reading skill of our children. The ability to learn in other subjects is largely conditioned by the ability to read.

The method of ranking is also being given attention. Comparison of pupil marks with intelligence and subject matter tests should aid us in determining whether pupils are getting the maximum from their opportunities, and whether the marks show this.

To summarize this report, which naturally deals more with the future than with the past, I would emphasize the following:

1. We want the best schools we can afford.
2. Money spent for superior teaching is not wasted.
3. Actual information should be available as to whether we are getting superior teaching, and where.
4. Non-educational expenditures should be carefully scrutinized. This includes books, supplies, repairs, equipment, fuel, and maintenance service.
5. All such expenditures should be made after putting out for bids, on specifications.
6. The proportion of our budget devoted strictly to education should be increased, and the proportion devoted to non-education reduced.
7. Additions to our curriculum should be deferred until we are sure we are doing well those things we are now attempting.
8. I would except from the last statement the matter of health, which is not now receiving enough attention.

With proper attention to the above recommendations, and without increasing the budget any faster than the increase of pupil enrollment, I believe the already high standard of your schools can be raised still higher.

May I express my appreciation of the support and assistance I have received from your board. May I also call to your attention the splendid effort and interest which your teaching force is displaying.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK A. MORRIS.
